

Wild Weather!

For the next two weeks you have a science/ writing mini-topic. Choose as many activities from the menu below as you would like to do over the next two weeks!

Order the seasons.

Can you research the four seasons, what are they called and how many are there? Can you order them?

Draw a tree in each of the seasons. What would it look like? How would it change? Can you write a description of the tree in each season?

Create a weather forecast!

Watch a weather forecast such as <https://www.metoffice.gov.uk/weather/videos/#?tab=features> and see if you can write your very own wild weather forecast for Great Britain.

Sun safety...

Draw a picture of someone who is going outside in very hot weather. How can they protect themselves from the sun? Can you write a set of instructions to tell someone what to do?

Winter warmth...

Draw a picture of someone who is going outside in very cold weather. How can they keep themselves warm? Can you write a set of instructions to tell someone what to do?

Outside adjectives.

Go and have a look outside. What is the weather like today? Think of as many adjectives as you can to describe what the weather is like. Remember to use everything you know about the 'fantastics' part of our writing rainbow! What can you hear, smell, see, touch...

Your favourite Season.

Create a piece of Artwork by drawing/ painting/ collaging a scene of your favourite season. Can you label all of the things in your picture that show it is that season?

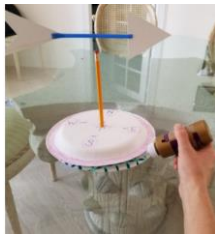

Read all about it...!

Read this newspaper report about a flood <https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/uk-36481948>. Can you recreate a newspaper report about a type of wild weather?

Create your own wind vane...

Follow the steps in these instructions to create your own very own wind vane. Can you write your own instructions to help someone else?

A seasonal acrostic poem.

Choose your favourite season and create an acrostic poem.

Sunny weather
 Pretty flowers
 Roses bloom
 It's the best season
 No more snow
 Great days
